FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

EXCELA HEALTH NEUROLOGY GROUP GROWING

GREENSBURG, PA, July 24, 2017… Excela Health welcomes Arvind Vasudevan, MD, to the Excela Health Neurology group.

For the past eight years, Dr. Vasudevan has been Inpatient Neurology Medical Director of the Carolinas Healthcare System Neuroscience Institute-Concord in Concord, N.C. and co-stroke director of the Carolinas Healthcare System Northern Region which encompasses 10 facilities. During his time there, he served on various hospital, regional and system quality and development committees; and was a graduate of the Carolinas Healthcare System Physician Leadership Institute in 2013.

His interests include medical system quality initiatives in neurology with emphasis on stroke and acute neurological diseases, behavioral neurology, as well as stroke emergency systems of care.

A graduate of Lenoir-Rhyne University in Hickory, N.C., Dr. Vasudevan received his medical degree from West Virginia University School of Medicine where he earned the American Academy of Neurology Medical Student Prize for Excellence. He remained in Morgantown for residency training at West Virginia University Hospitals in a program that combined neurology and psychiatry.

Over the course of the six-year residency, he received additional training in neuropsychiatry through multidisciplinary clinics in neurodegenerative disorders, adult developmental disorders, thought disorders, and sleep disorders. He also participated in the residency and fellowship committee of the American Society of Psychopharmacology. He was named chief resident of neurology during his fifth year of residency.

Concurrent to his residency, Dr. Vasudevan served as medical director for Morgantown Pastoral Counseling Center gaining experience as an independent practitioner of psychiatry.

He is board certified in both neurology and psychiatry by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and is a current member of the American Academy of Neurology.

Dr. Vasudevan is practicing at Medical Commons Two, 540 South Street, Suite 302. To reach Dr. Vasudevan, visit MyExcelaDoc.org.
